DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-20 are allowed over prior art.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

None of the prior art teaches or suggest an x-ray tube window cooling assembly comprising an electron collector body having a coolant inlet and outlet and the coolant output is directing coolant at an x-ray tube window surface to impinge upon as claimed in independent claim 1.

None of the prior teaches or suggests an x-ray tube comprising an electron collector body having a coolant inlet and a coolant outlet and said coolant outlet is directing coolant at a refection surface on the x-ray tube, opposite that of an x-ray tube window surface, to reflect said coolant off said reflection surface as to impinge upon as claimed in independent claim 13.

None of the prior teaches or suggests a method of operating an x-ray generating device comprising directing coolant at a refection surface on the x-ray tube, opposite that of a x-ray tube window surface to reflect said coolant off said reflection surface as to impinges upon via a first cooling circuit as claimed in independent claim 19.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Art Unit: 2882

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Rogers (US 6263046B1) and Rogers et al. (US 6215852B1) teaches an x-ray tube having electron collector body having coolant circuit but fails to teach that coolant outlet is directing coolant at tube window surface to impinge upon.
